ITTV - THE ITALIAN TELEVISION FESTIVAL RETURNS TO LOS ANGELES OCTOBER 30 – NOVEMBER 2

ITTV, organized by Good Girls Planet, founded by journalists Valentina Martelli, Cristina Scognamillo, and Francesca Scorcucchi, and MTLA, returns Oct 30-Nov 2.

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, October 21, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- After its success at the Venice International Film Festival, ITTV, organized by Good Girls Planet - founded by entertainment journalists Valentina Martelli (CEO), Cristina Scognamillo, and Francesca Scorcucchi - and MTLA, the Los Angeles branch of the Italian advertising company Armando Testa, returns to Los Angeles, from October 30 to November 2, 2021.

The festival opens with a family-focused event on October 30 dedicated to animation in San Pedro's Little Italy, with the international premiere of Pinocchio and Friends by Rainbow Group, founded by legendary Italian animator and comic book author Iginio Straffi. 44 and Winx Club, also created by Straffi, will be screened, and Straffi will be presented with the Kinéo-ITTV Award. Additional programming for the evening includes Puffins, featuring the voice of Johnny Depp, Arctic Friends, series by ILBE Group Productions, and Mila the animated short about a little girl who survived bombings during WWII in Italy, by Cinzia Angelini.

ITTV's schedule of events continues on November 1 at the NeueHouse in Hollywood. A day dedicated to US audiovisual industry executives showcasing trailers of the best Italian television series, including Gomorrah, Petra, Domina, Anna, Romulus, Devils, Carosello Carosone, Leonardo, and Non mi lasciare (Fremantle, Rai Fiction, Sky, and Cattleya).

The program also features in-depth discussions with leading international executives, including:

- From Home Video to Web TV – A conversation with legendary producer Vin Di Bona and distributor Niccolò Messina of Jungo TV
 - Opening Boundaries - The Influence of Global Television and How These Changes Affect International Production – A conversation with Ted Miller, Head of Global Television for CAA, Matteo Perale, co-founder Wiip, Lena Roklin, Talent Manager for Luber Roklin Entertainment, Lorenzo De Maio, De Maio Entertainment, Matt Brennan, Television Editor for the Los Angeles Times
- “This year we wanted to highlight the importance of animation and independent content from Italian storytellers working in the United States”
 — Valentina Martelli, ITTV co-founder and CEO of Good Girls Planet
